1	If they're a war veteran then no. Help them. If they're a druggie...bame...just shoot them.	11/18/2023 2:29 PM
2	Matter for the Councils homeless team to intervene, not anti-social behaviour	11/3/2023 4:10 PM
3	No. Instead of restricting begging, the council and/or community should help these individuals so they don't need to beg for aid. Adopting an "out of sight, out of mind" mentality won't fix the problem, and would probably make things worse.	11/1/2023 12:05 PM

2	Does this include children whom live in Briadway going up and down balconies aswell	11/16/2023 7:48 PM
3	This factor should not include "annoyance" as a criteria. It should also be extended to include vehicles propelled by motors (ie e-bikes, battery scooters, etc)	11/16/2023 3:11 PM
4	if causing harassment, alarm or distress. Equally boys pulling wheelies or stunts on the broadway ienin the road slowing traffic or across the road causing cars/pedestrians to brake sharply or avoid contact.	11/15/2023 11:56 AM
5	Also cars parking on pavement in shopping centre of Debden. It is getting ridiculous	11/8/2023 4:54 PM
6	Only small children should be aloud to do this.	11/1/2023 3:18 PM
7	Yes in terms of teenagers riding bikes/motorbikes etc in dangerous and intimidating ways. However no to children of residents riding in the flats balconies. These children don't have the luxury of their own gardens and deserve to have a normal childhood playing outside their homes.	10/29/2023 9:23 AM
8	Yes, but should include motor vehicles on pavements which cause distress to the aged/disabled	10/23/2023 11:40 AM
